REMOVED FROM A CIVIL SERVICE CLERKSHIP

WASHINGTON, May 19.—[Special.]—Republicans in departments here who were foolish enough to believe they would be allowed to retain their places under the present administration because the offices they filled came under the scope of the civil service law had their eyes opened to-day when it was announced that Chauncey G. The quotas of all northern and western states are filled, and as all appointments that are now made will be from the southern states there is every possibility that ever with a fair and impartial selection nine out of every ten of those selected for appointment will be democrats.

When within thirty feet of the water he seemed to be realizing his danger ... [illegible] ... movement was, however, made too late. His body had now turned so far that it was impossible to change his course. Half a second later with a mighty splash that threw up water on all sides as if from a shell ... Odlum struck the water ... and sank out of sight.

[illegible] A FEW MOMENTS

The tug hurriedly pushed itself forward to the place where the body fell, and Captain Boyton, after seeing that life preservers had been thrown into the water, sprang over the side of the boat and waited for the body to come to the surface. Soon he saw the white face of the professor rising from the water and a moment later he was by his side. Seizing a life preserver near by he placed it beneath the body of the unconscious professor. Blood mingled with froth came from the mouth of the daring man. A row boat soon came to the rescue, and Professor Odlum was taken from the water.

A few moments later he was transferred to the tug and restoratives were administered. After considerable rubbing, the eyes of the professor opened.

"What kind of a jump did I make?" he whispered.

"First class, my boy," responded Boyton. "You'll be all right in a little while."

But he was insensible again before the words had hardly left his lips. The tug steamed hastily to her slip, and just as the pier was reached a shudder passed through the frame of the professor, and then, after breathing heavily once or twice, his heart stopped beating, and he was pronounced dead. The body was taken ashore and conveyed to an undertaker's.

Prof. Robert E. Odlum was formerly professor of swimming ... in Washington, but lately has been clerk in the Willard hotel. It has been his ambition to jump from Brooklyn bridge. THREE MEN DROWNED

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., May 19.—[Special.]—A terrible accident resulting in the drowning of three men occurred yesterday at Fort Spokane, fifty miles north of here. The particulars as telegraphed the writer are as follows: There is a cable ferry across the Columbia river here, which is used as a crossing on the main traveled road. Yesterday Captain O'Brien's company of the Second cavalry started out for the usual summer march, intending to extend the excursion northward. After most of the transferring had been completed the ferry started toward evening having on board twelve men and eight pack mules. A heavy wind was blowing, and from some cause, when the boat reached nearly mid-stream, the cable parted, and the ferry was carried down the stream and broke in two on the rapids a half mile below. One soldier stripped and swam ashore. Mr. Gardner, the blacksmith, clung to the bottom of the boat and saved one man and one Indian, whom he picked up after passing the rapids. All the others managed to reach shore one way or another except J. M. Rambo, of company C, Second infantry, William St. Clair, a teamster, and Patrick Boyle, a packer, who could not swim. Rambo had one of his arms broken in some manner and of course could not save himself. None of the bodies have as yet been recovered. St. Clair was a native of Pennsylvania. Boyle has a brother living in Colville.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

SPOKANE FALLS, May 19.—[Special.]—This place was thrown into considerable excitement to-day by the attempted suicide of J. B. Shaw, a young man who arrived here from Butte City about three months ago. It appears that Shaw kept a restaurant in Butte City last winter and when he came here a young girl who had been in his employ as waiter girl came with him. She says that he promised to marry her as soon as they arrived here. Instead of doing so he placed her in a house of ill fame and has since lived on her earnings. Saturday last he went to the house and beat and abused the girl so badly that the officers were called in and Shaw locked up in jail. He pleaded guilty and was given a light fine provided he would leave town within twenty four hours. He went to the Northern Pacific hotel and hired a room and was not seen again till the chambermaid heard a pistol shot, and on going to the room Shaw was found insensible on the bed with a horrible wound in his head just over his left eye. A note he left and the circumstances go to show that he first took a dose of morphine, but recovered, and then to finish the job took a 44-calibre bulldog. He is still alive, but the doctor says his death is only a question of a few hours. But little sympathy is expressed for him.

EASTERN OREGON MINES

Valuable Claims and Prospects in the Vicinity of Baker City

Letter in Salt Lake Tribune

Considerable excitement exists in ... development ... [illegible]

Baker county has long had a reputation for being a rich mineral country. This reputation is based ... from its large amount of bullion ... placer mines. These places are located ... throughout the entire central and northern portions of the county, and while a few of them are either worked out or turned over to Chinamen many are being worked to-day with satisfactory and profitable results. Among the latter are the numerous claims in the foothills lying adjacent to Baker City, the county seat and the commercial center of the entire country in Oregon east of the Blue mountains; the Rye valley mines owned by the New England and Oregon Placer Company; the Chicken creek mines owned by Weatherby & Co. and the Mormon basin mines owned and operated by several private individuals.

In Clark's creek and Old Eldorado, now Malheur City, some mining is done by white men, but these ... are for the most part in the hands of Chinamen. Eldorado is supplied by water from Burnt river through the famous

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY MILE DITCH

Which conducts water from the head of Burnt river across the divide which separates the waters of Burnt and Powder rivers and turns it below Malheur City into Willow creek, whence it flows to the Malheur river. We shall take pleasure in referring to this great enterprise in some future communication.

Comparatively little attention has been given to quartz mining, although ... [illegible] ... every instance ... worked have yielded profitable returns.

The Connor Creek gold mine situated on Snake river twenty miles below Burnt river, owned by Reed, Faull and others, has been worked for many years and is one of the most valuable properties in the state.

The Gold Ridge mine owned by Ainsworth and Myrick, ... point on Burnt river ... miles ... is another valuable property ... with the most modern machinery, and like Connor Creek yields large returns.

The public is now but little of these two mines as the owners are satisfied with results and the stock which is owned by ... [illegible] ... is none of it on the market. Other discoveries have been made in both gold and silver quartz and are now in course of development.

Among these recent discoveries may be ... noted

THE GROVER CLEVELAND

Owned by Howard & Co. with three extensions located on the same. This prospect was discovered years ago but was never developed to any extent and was abandoned by the original locators, they having left the country. This mine, as at present developed, shows over 1000 tons of high grade ore and is considered the best prospect in the county. The first extension was sold to parties connected with the Union Pacific railroad for a handsome consideration and was purchased on the strength of the appearance of the ledge in the discovery claim.

The owners of the Grover Cleveland purpose continuing the development during the summer, and as long as they have the ledge and the ore that now exists they daily enhance the value of their property. The question of obtaining a mill has been discussed, but with rates on ore offered by the Union Pacific to Salt Lake and Omaha they prefer to wait further development. They now have ore enough in sight to pay for all development made, and they won't disturb it until a sale of the property is effected or a definite plan for the future is adopted. This ore is decomposed free milling quartz, and its location is on Burnt river twelve miles from this place.

THE YELLOW JACKET

Situated a mile and a half below, is of the same character, but not so thoroughly developed. It is owned by Judge R. S. Anderson of Baker City, formerly of Utah, who is taking quite an active interest in the development of our various interests.

On Snake river below Burnt river seven miles is a cluster of prospects which have attracted considerable attention. Prominent among them is the Big Horse, about which much has been said and written. This, together with those adjacent to it, are silver bearing, and the ores carry native silver and black and gray sulphurets, and are very high grade.

THE BIG HORSE

Has been developed by two hundred feet of tunnel along the ledge and several cross cuts to the walls and now shows an immense body of ore. This property is owned by Messrs. Holmes and Ayres, of Walla Walla, W. T., and S. K. Goldtrap of Centerville, Idaho, who have said they would ship ore to Salt Lake as soon as rates could be obtained.

Messrs. Crow, Cox, Glenn, Tice and others have good looking claims in the vicinity on both sides of Snake river and a mining district ... [illegible] ... importance will no doubt be the result of the present discoveries.

Opposite Connor creek, a few miles from Snake river, is

WASHINGTON DISTRICT IN IDAHO,

A camp too well known and advertised and too extensive for me to attempt to describe in a general letter like the one I am writing. I will say, however, that it is in my opinion destined to become one of the most extensive mining camps in Idaho, and would have had the advantage of large capital and enterprise long since had it not been for the foolishness of some of the owners of the best claims, who are so hampering their properties with litigation that capital cannot come between the owners and the lawyers.

Within the surveyed limits of the town of Huntington there has been a discovery of a ledge of gold and silver-bearing quartz, and the owners, Messrs. McCarty and Ryan, are now running a tunnel to intersect the ledge 200 feet below the surface. This is low grade ore, assaying $8.50, but from appearance it is an immense ledge, and the owners expect to meet the ledge in a few days.

For years eastern Oregon has had a black eye, and its quartz mining interests have suffered from lack of transportation facilities. Now machinery can be laid by rail in sight of many a prospect which will in the near future be turning out their products of gold and silver and enriching their owners and building towns and cities.

Formerly it was worth a man's life to visit our region from the east in the mining season, which visit involved a trip through here and west from Kelton to this place by stage. Now parties come in Pullman cars to see the far off Oregon. A new era is upon us. The Union Pacific is doing much to open and develop not only our mining resources, but all the many and varied interests which await enterprise, capital and culture, which always go hand in hand with the locomotive, and no country will so effectually feel more rapidly improve and develop under the new order of things than eastern Oregon.

SPREAD OF CHOLERA IN SPAIN.

Paris Entirely Interested in the Suez Canal Commission. Advices from the Canadian Frontier—Rumors of a Battle

NEW YORK, May 19.—[Special.]—A cable from London says: Lord Churchill is anxious that the conservatives should make common cause with the Parnellites and radicals in resisting the crimes act if he could persuade tory leaders that such a course would destroy the bill and the government, but Lord Salisbury will not acquiesce. The conservatives represent property and protestantism, and the real object of the act is to prevent such classes being robbed and murdered. There is hope that the Irish party in the rush of violence will be suspended for disregarding the authority of the chair. Irish members however, are aware of the danger. Their leader is cool, and resistance will take the form of skillful persistent, but not boisterous obstruction. A prominent Catholic told a correspondent to-day that the effect of the action of the government will be to close all branches, and cause the nationalists to form an unbroken front against the Saxon policy of coercion for six months more. The introduction of a land purchase scheme might have done more to aid in the extinction of nationalist agitation than all the crimes acts that could be framed now. All dissensions will cease before the new crusades at the coming election, and the nationalist ranks will be considerably increased.

THE SPREAD OF CHOLERA IN SPAIN

NEW YORK, May 19.—[Special.]—A London special says of the rapid spread of cholera in Spain: The authorities tried for a long while to conceal the fact. They have spread glowing accounts of the success of Dr. Ferran's new system of microbic inoculation as a preventive, but these accounts are now known to have been much overdrawn. Ferran has inoculated several thousand persons and comparatively few of them have been attacked or killed by cholera, but subjects are generally selected from the better classes of the people who by their cleanliness, regularity of habits, and exemption from exhausting labor in the rice field and elsewhere, were normally less susceptible to infection and less liable to succumb if attacked than the bulk of the peasantry. Medical men here are indisposed to credit the efficacy of Ferran's discovery, and prefer to await the report of the government commission sent from London to investigate.

ADVICES FROM THE FRONT

WINNIPEG, May 19.—No intelligence has yet been received of the arrival of Middleton's men at Prince Albert, but it is supposed they have advanced to that point long before now. It is expected they will proceed from there to Battleford by steamer. If the water is high the journey could be made in three or four days. With a united force a heavy blow could be struck at Poundmaker. Big Bear's attention will, in the meantime, be taken with General Strange's forces.

A letter from Edmonton says: "Mrs. Delaney, one of the Frog Lake captives, was outraged till she died and her body then cut to pieces by squaws. Mrs. Gowan Locke, another captive, has been taken possession of by one of the young Indians as his wife. Nothing has been heard of the fate of the McLean family, but it is supposed to be a horrible one."

A dispatch from Saskatchewan Landing says: Three of the teamsters who escaped from Poundmaker's Indians have arrived, and report as follows: Twenty-one ox teams and nine horse teams left Miller on the 11th, and when within eight miles of Battleford were suddenly pounced upon by over 100 Indians, all mounted, who completely surrounded the men, and as the latter were not numerous enough to stand fight, the only thing left was to cut their horses loose and run off the trails, in between the different squads, and take the chance of escaping. Thirty loads of supplies were lost, composed of seventeen loads of provisions and thirteen loads of oats. Fifteen more loads are some twenty miles north of Miller station, and fifteen are at that station, making in all sixty loads now at the mercy of the Indians. Twenty men were taken prisoners by the Indians, eighteen being ox drivers and two horse teamsters. This affair will no doubt stop teamsters from going to the front, until troops are sent in advance to clear the road. The escaped men were chased over ten miles, and then fired upon, but without effect. McConnell, depot clerk at Miller station, is here having abandoned his post on account of the trouble. All depots along the track are also being closed.

RESULT OF PAUL BOYTON'S JOKE

HALIFAX, May 19.—[Special.]—The preliminary investigation into the conduct of the officers of the war ship Garnet, for allowing Paul Boyton to place a sham torpedo under the vessel, while in New York harbor, has been concluded. The sentry on duty has been summarily sentenced to forty-two days close confinement for neglecting to prevent Boyton's approach to the ship, and failing to report promptly the incident. The midshipman on duty has been acquitted, but Lieut. Gardner, who allowed Boyton to go after having him in charge, instead of taking him as a prisoner on board the Garnet, is to be formally courtmartialed.

POUNDMAKER CAPTURED AFTER A HARD BATTLE

NEW YORK, May 19.—Dispatches from Winnipeg last night state that Colonel Otter yesterday made an attack on Poundmaker, and after a severe battle captured him and took 120 prisoners. FRANCE.

THE SUEZ CANAL COMMISSION

NEW YORK, May 19.—[Special.]—A special from Paris says: Political interest here centers entirely on the proceedings of the Suez canal commission. English delegates refuse to admit the proposed international surveillance of the canal. A member of a sub-commission says the history of the meetings held, if written, would be that of a long, dogged struggle between Bismarck and Gladstone. Germany has shown herself far more hostile to England throughout than even France. Italy has been neutral in the surveillance question, though she leaned toward England. As a basis of their opposition to England, the German delegates resuscitated the first counter proposal, made in a moment of irritation by France, after the issue of Granville's circular in 1883. France subsequently made a second counter proposal which all the powers clearly understood to have completely annulled the previous one. The English delegates are convinced that even if an agreement is reached upon the point now at issue, Bismarck will raise fresh difficulties. Quite two months are expected to elapse before the regularly constituted conference disposes of the whole question.

PORTLAND, WEDNESDAY, MAY, 20, 1885.

AN INTERESTING BOOK.

The "History of the Willamette Valley," compiled by Mr. H. O. Lang and published by Himes & Lang, of this city, is to some extent a history of Oregon. It is, in fact, a very good and fairly complete history of early Oregon, with an account of later times in the Willamette valley. As the title page indicates, we have in this fine volume "a description of the Willamette valley and its resources, with an account of its discovery and settlement by white men and its subsequent history, together with personal reminiscences of its early pioneers."

During some years past the history of pioneer days in Oregon has been a fruitful theme. Writers in great numbers have contributed to it the results of their personal recollections or wider researches. Controversies on particular points have created a considerable literature, in scattered pieces, yet possessing much real value. The transactions of our pioneer society, articles in newspapers and magazines, and contents of books, some published on this coast and others in the eastern states, have supplied a great deal of new and valuable material. Mr Lang has used all this with care and judgment. A great deal has also been furnished from the memory of living pioneers. Of the matter of which the volume is composed, Mr. Lang has made a commodious arrangement and distribution; he begins with an account of voyages and discoveries along the northern Pacific coast, gives the early traditions of Oregon and works into a clear narrative the various steps of discovery before which fiction and tradition disappeared and the ground work of actual history was laid. Then he passes to the record of overland journeys, presents a summary of the controversy with Great Britain about the title to the country, touches upon the foundation and progress of the missions, gives a succinct account of the organization of a provisional government, and sets forth in graphic manner the general conditions of early life in Oregon, including the many struggles with the Indians for possession of the country.

Though the book is called a history of the Willamette valley, it has in fact a much wider scope. It covers the history of nearly the entire country embraced in the present limits of Oregon and Washington, during that early period. The later narrative is confined mainly to the Willamette valley, and this gives us a fair topographical description of the great valley, its geology, climate and products, with sketches of its development to its present stage.

What makes the book specially attractive and valuable is the vast amount of personal memoranda with which it abounds. We may almost call it a history of the Oregon people. Mention is made of most persons who have borne an active or notable part in the history of the Pacific northwest. The labor necessary to gather these materials has been great, and we think it has been performed with impartiality and fidelity. There are some omissions undoubtedly, and it would not be difficult to point out mistakes. But we see nothing, either in the matter of omission or of mistake which can be charged to culpable intent. Mr. Lang's style is simple, easy and direct. He has given us an interesting and valuable book. It is beautifully printed and bound, and its 900 pages contain an amount of interesting matter which can not elsewhere be obtained. It is not pitched in the high key of studied historical writing. The plan did not admit that mode of treatment. It is a book of ana, rather than history, and this imparts to it a local and personal character that will attract the attention and win the favor of many readers among us.

LOGAN'S TRIUMPH.

The senatorial contest in Illinois, one of the most bitter political contests that has ever taken place in the United States, of unprecedented duration and attended with many disgraceful scenes, has at last ended in the re-election of John A. Logan. The legislature met on the 7th day of January, with the parties tied on a joint ballot. General Logan was the republican candidate and Colonel Morrison the democratic candidate. As an election was impossible so long as the parties remained undivided, there was only a formal observance of the United States law governing the election of senators from day to day. During the absence of a large number of republicans a snow blockade occurred, which almost gave the democrats their coveted opportunity to secure an election, but this was prevented by the refusal of republicans to vote. The death of a democrat and then the death of a republican disturbed the even balance of parties for a few days, but neither side was able to turn these events to its advantage pending the re-election to fill the vacancies. Then a democrat died and the vigilant republican managers captured his successor, which gave them a majority on the joint ballot. After the deadlock was thus broken only the corruption of one or more republicans could have prevented the re-election of General Logan. At the last the democrats attempted to break the solid republican vote by changing to Charles B. Farwell, the old rival and antagonist of Logan in Chicago, but they were not successful. Under the circumstances the republicans could not honorably desert their candidate. The responsibility for this long combat, which has interfered with the work of the legislature and brought much discredit upon the members, should be equally distributed between the parties, for it has been in the power of either at any time to end the disgraceful dispute. In a party sense, however, it was impossible for any member on either side to yield.

The final result is a cause for congratulation among republicans all over the country. Gen. Logan has filled the office two full terms, and during that period has been an able representative. His re-election is a deserved tribute to his ability as a legislator as well as a party manager. He gains the exceptional distinction of being the only leading senatorial candidate who has succeeded at the end of a long contest, during the past five years. Ferry of Michigan, Windom of Minnesota, and the leading candidates in two elections in this state, not to speak of others, failed at the last, and compromise candidates bore away the palm of victory.

SOCIALISM.

The discontent of the working classes with existing social relations has been intensified by what they regard, not wholly without reason, as the selfishness of the older political economy, which has a cut and dried answer for their complaints, with its references to the wage fund and the number of work-people. They have regarded it as a system invented for the benefit of the rich. But a new school of political economists is now arising, which sees that the old teaching was in part mistaken, and which is collecting facts and preparing for a wider and truer generalization. If political economists, impartially searching for the truth, have thus gone astray, it is little surprising that working men, brooding over the hardness of their lot, should indulge in Utopian dreams and adopt wild theories. Their errors are natural under the new development of industry, which is changing the face of the world and adding so largely to the wealth of nations and which has at the same time improved beyond measure their own condition. Anyone who will compare the wages now with those paid a quarter of a century ago will see this, and he will be still more convinced of it if he runs over in his mind all that has been done by European legislation especially for the benefit of the laborer—the efforts made to give to the very humblest a good elementary education, to provide healthful dwellings for the poor, to shorten the hours of labor, to protect the workman from avoidable accidents, to save women and children from excessive toil. And again it is to be seen in the increased influence which the working classes are able to exercise over legislation. But the improvement in the workingman's position has but awakened him to a sense of the hardness of his lot. Formerly he accepted his position as a dispensation from heaven. He knew that his father and his father's father had occupied a similar position, and he believed it was a part of the providential plan that some should work while some should play. But he has lost his old beliefs in this respect, and he has come to think that his condition is not fixed by decree of heaven, but is the result of unequal and unjust human arrangements.

He has been encouraged and supported in this view by the new school of political economists who attribute the great difference between his condition and that of his employer to the selfishness of the latter rather than to the necessary laws of demand and supply. They compare their own ill-furnished homes, their scanty, hard, sorry clothing, with the mansion, the carriages, the parks and gardens of their employer, and they infer that he is rolling in luxury at their expense. And they are told, as Rev. Newman Smyth has just informed the workingmen of New Haven, Conn., that the cause of their unequal struggle is the selfishness of the capitalist. "What is the last cause of that corner of wheat," says Dr. Smyth. "Who has done this evil thing? Every one of you knows who has done it. It was the devil in man. It was satanic greed in those men's hearts that did it. It was not capital, not the law of private property, not the principle of competition; it was the hard, reckless, hellish selfishness in those men's hearts from which proceeded their evil deed. Charge, then, the evil where it belongs. Don't locate it upon the will of Almighty God or the constitution of things, or in the law and order of society but put it where it belongs—in the selfish and wicked hearts of men. . . The ultimate trouble is not that civilization has a money bag, and that someone carries it, the difficulty was and is the presence of Judas Iscariot upon this earth. How to get rid of the spirit of Judas Iscariot is the final question of modern civilization."

In this country what is well founded in the complaints of the working classes is gaining a fuller recognition from year to year and acknowledgment of what is wrong is the first step to its correction. With the progress of industrial development, with the growth of wealth, with the spread of enlightenment, with, in a word, the advance of civilization, there will come a better feeling between classes, and the danger that is now alarming timid people for the safety of the fundamental institutions of society will be found in the long run but a prelude to a higher and better state.

A GOOD EFFORT GONE WRONG.

The people of San Francisco are having a great deal of trouble over their free library. Indeed, it has been a continual bother, since the day of its opening. First there was a row over the election of officers. Then there was a wrangle over the selection of books, ending in a compromise which satisfied nobody. It was soon found impossible to maintain the library against thievery and mutilation, if left accessible to all comers. And now, when the shelves are protected by gratings, and the dictionaries, directories, etc., are chained to their places, self-respecting people will not patronize the library. The drawing of books during the past year, since the protective devices were introduced, has greatly fallen off and the character of the patronage has declined in even greater proportion. The librarian in his report, just issued, has tried by a great deal of artful dodging to present the matter in a favorable light, but the figures can not be made to lie, and they show the melancholy facts of the situation very plainly.

Indeed, the San Francisco free library may be considered an absolute evil. The books drawn from it are for the most part trash of the "Airy Fairy Lillian" sort, or worse, and a large share of its patronage is on the part of young girls to whom this stuff is simply poison. To such an extent has the public reading room become a place of assignation, that no reputable girl is seen there unattended. So bad is the condition of the institution that many of the newspapers are recommending its abolishment.

The unfortunate circumstances of this library to a great extent grow out of the conditions of society in San Francisco, but they are not wholly due to that cause. With good management perversion of the library to evil tendencies might be arrested. The fault therefore is in the management. San Francisco is a "big-viced city," as the phrase in Timon goes, but there is virtue enough in it, if there were an awakened public spirit, to prevent the perversion of so good a thing as a free public library to the worst of abuses.

THE CORVALLIS COLLEGE CASE.

It is claimed by the trustees of the Corvallis college that State Secretary Earhart's interpretation of the law relating to the state agricultural fund is wrong, and that a correct rendering will give them the fund as formerly, and we learn that they will bring suit to compel the secretary to pay over the money. Mr Earhart will be in the singular position of a defendant eager to lose his case, for we happen to know that he is anxious to deliver the money and would be glad of a legal order to do so. He withholds it only because he has no authority to pay it over, as he reads the law, and he properly considers that an "officer can not be wiser than the law."

THE OREGONIAN would be extremely pleased if a way should be found to keep open the doors from which only the best influences have gone forth. The Corvallis college is one of the old institutions of the state and its career has been a high and useful one. It is desirable that its sessions should regularly continue during the time the new state college is building, for the benefit of those now attending upon it, and that its organization may remain intact ready to be moved as a whole to the new institution when its building shall be done. This was the purpose of the legislature, as the law itself clearly shows, and it is to be hoped that a way will be found to carry it into effect.

But if the courts confirm Mr. Earhart's rendering of the law, the trustees can only blame themselves for their hasty and indiscreet resignation of advantages, without which they should have known their school could not exist. Their dullness and petulance in the matter is without excuse.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean takes notice of the fact that nine-tenths of Mr. Cleveland's, or rather Mr. Bayard's, appointments of ministers and consuls to Europe are either ex-confederate soldiers or northern copperheads who sympathized with the confederates during the war. "The reasonable presumption, therefore, is that the administration is endeavoring to manufacture a public opinion in Europe favorable to the party or faction that was defeated in the war for the Union." Such an inference is justifiable under the circumstances, especially in cases like that of Mr. Keiley, minister to Austria, a man who, a week before his departure for Vienna, characterized the action of his government in stamping out the rebellion as unmitigated tyranny.

It is said that at least a dozen leading statesmen are intending to write their recollections before they die. Judge W. D. Kelley, the noted [illegible] protectionist, and one of the most interesting writers in public life, intends to write a book of reminiscences in connection with his daughter Florence, who so recently married the Russian [illegible] with the unpronounceable name. Senator Sherman is another interesting writer, who has a fund of material of great value, consisting of letters from his brother, General Sherman, and his replies. Ex-Senator Dorsey, disgusted, [illegible] as he is unaffected with politics, and has all the money he wants, he is quietly preparing to write a book for the purpose of getting even with his enemies.

Ex-Representative Shelley of Alabama has been appointed fourth auditor of the treasury. The appointment is a reprehensible and disgraceful one. Mr. Shelley lives in what is known in the political slang of the day as the "black district" of the state from which he hails. He has succeeded in getting into congress four times, though the majority against him at the polls was from 10,000 to 15,000 at each election. By fraud and bulldozing he uniformly received the certificate of election, the rascally canvassing boards throwing out votes enough, always amounting to many thousands, for that purpose. The forty-seventh congress (1881-1882), which was republican, turned him out of his seat and gave it to his republican competitor, who had been elected by some 12,000 majority but had been refused a certificate of election. He is just such a man as an administration that would keep the memory of the southern confederacy green naturally delights to honor.

The results of the fishing season on the Lower Columbia river can never be certainly foretold, but the prospect is that this year's pack will be very light. All the canneries are operating after a fashion, but none care to do much because the outlook for prices is bad. The embarrassment occasioned by the fishermen's strike is not taken seriously by the packers, for in any event they see little chance of profit. And besides, the run is now so light that it matters little if the boats go out or not. It would certainly be a misfortune to the state if the season should be a failure, but it would not be without some compensation, in that it would give the fish a chance to "multiply and replenish."

Nearly half a million south London people were without water for two days recently owing to the bursting of a main of the Lambeth water company. But the company charged at the end of the quarter just as though the water had been delivered without intermission. The London Land and Water says that the rights of the water companies and the public seem to have been generally adjusted on the principle of "heads, I win, tails, you lose." As the Boston Record observes, all over the world, except in Kentucky, the water question is stirring people up at a great rate. Perhaps water has seen its best days.

The Kansas prohibitionists have run against a snag. A law authorizing the county attorney to institute a court of inquiry in cases of violation of the prohibitory section of the constitution, and examine witnesses and administer oaths, has been declared unconstitutional by Judge Crozier. Of course this does not invalidate the amendment—only one of the methods enacted to enforce it.

The prevailing soft weather affords the best possible conditions for all growing crops excepting early fruits, such as strawberries and cherries, and they are not suffering to any ruinous extent. Grain fields in all parts of the country continue in a prosperous state, and hopes are high for the largest and finest harvest ever garnered in the history of the country.

The New York Sun appears to be endeavoring to regain the standing in the democratic party that it lost by supporting Ben. Butler, through a zealous advocacy of the most extreme doctrines of the spoilsmen.

UNCLAIMED MONEY.

Millions in Government Bonds whose Owners are Unknown.

WASHINGTON, May [illegible]. It is estimated that $[illegible] have been paid into the United States treasury for government bonds that will never in all probability be called for. Year after year the interest on these bonds is carefully computed and credited to the holder. In this way it is easy to determine the exact amount of the original investment. This seeming carelessness on the part of the bondholders is explained by the treasury officials on the hypothesis that the owners have become insane, or died intestate, or, as is sometimes the case, have been lost at sea or killed in a railway accident, when there was no opportunity to communicate with their friends. Not infrequently a certain class of people with more money than mind have purchased bonds and, after hiding them away in some obscure place, forgot all about the transaction. In such cases the government is that much the richer.

It is not the policy of the government to inform people that certain moneys are held at the treasury to their credit. If the present system and establishment [illegible] the government [illegible] chances are a thousand to one that he will never get anything. If a dozen clerks in the treasury department who have the handling of these matters could easily grow rich by selling their information to people thus defrauded by the government for a small percentage of the gross amount. That they do not do so is an [illegible] that redounds to their credit, for in every case they are small salaried men to whom a few thousand dollars would be a princely fortune.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

VERY GREEN BUNKO SHARPS —In Monday there arrived here three bold young men from Bitter Creek or some other place in Montana, who imagined they had a mission to "bunko" the unsophisticated inhabitants of this benighted region. They were a dizzy trio of dudes got up in a style which was a sort of compromise between the minstrel and the ministerial. They had scarcely landed before they gave themselves away and Policemen Barry and Summers were on their track. Yesterday they made a winning. They ran across a young man from the country and one of them engaged him to drive a milk wagon. The wealthy young milkman was just going up to the shop to pay for a new wagon and as the bunko was closed the newly engaged driver ... him $20 and waited for him to come back. Of course the fellow ... and the victim went to the police office and made his complaint. Just then two of the smart Alecks came in and were invited into the jail and asked to refund the money to the victim. They declined and said they had no money. The door of a cell yawned for them instanter and one of the fellows went down into his pocket and fished up a $20 piece instanter and handed it over "Now," said Chief Parrish, "I will give you twenty four hours to get out of this town." They pleaded for more time, but could not get an extension, and were assured that if found in the city after the expiration of the limit they would be locked up. They will probably try the Sound. One of the fellows wore a wine-colored frock coat, a tall flat topped Derby hat, very tight dark blue breeches with a silver stripe and toothpick shoes. He is slim and cadaverous looking, with a slight mustache, and has the appearance of an opium fiend. The second is a short, stout, red faced scoundrel with black suit, including a sawed-off coat, hat and shoes like his pal. The third is invited to send in his description for publication. Authorities of all towns in the northwest are warned to look out for these silly dude bunkoists and make things interesting for them.

FIRE AT SALEM —The foundry and machine shops of Duvall & Adams, located near the river bank at Salem, caught fire yesterday morning about 4 o clock. The fire department lost no time in turning out, and succeeded in saving adjoining property, although the Capital lumbering mills and their immense piles of lumber had a very narrow escape, the wind being sufficiently strong to carry the burning cinders several blocks. Fortunately however, a heavy rain was falling, which fact alone saved a general conflagration. The surrounding lumber piles were badly charred and were blazing in many instances, but the firemen succeeded in extinguishing them before any great damage was done. The fire was probably the work of an incendiary. In fact while the buildings were burning, a fire was started under the mill company's office, which was extinguished just in time to save further trouble. The buildings and contents were insured for $3400, of which amount $1100 was in the Commercial of California and the remainder in companies represented by Balfour, Guthrie & Co of this city. The building and its contents will prove a total loss, which, however, is well nigh covered by the insurance.

A ROSEATE VIEW —Hon Joseph Jurgensen of Walla Walla, writing to a friend in this city concerning the crop outlook, says "You never saw such a cheerful lot of people as there are in this country. The most conservative farmers unite in estimating the summer fallowed wheat at thirty bushels to the acre as an average. The area in grain is immense. The assessor of this county told me yesterday that there were 110,000 acres in wheat and 60,000 acres in barley in Walla Walla county. I have talked with over fifty settlers who have come in to prove up, etc. They all said that there was no necessity of losing a day in plowing or breaking from last July until December 1 that every man put in every acre he had to cultivate and had much time to spare. In looking over the assessor's individual returns I found few who had less than eighty acres in wheat. It would much more than average 100 acres to each farmer. If the weather should have been chosen there could not have been a better season from the time the grain was sown until to-day. So, unless some great misfortune occurs, which no one can foresee, this country will be very prosperous."

CUTTING OFF CLERKS —The policy of retrenchment which the Northern Pacific railroad has been applying of late to the various departments of the company's service, has at last struck the general office, says the Pioneer Press. In compliance with the request of Vice President Oakes, the heads of departments have taken into consideration the subject of reducing their forces, and as a result about a dozen of the clerks employed throughout the building have received their discharge. Most of these, however, go out with the understanding that they will be recalled in two or three months, if their services shall be required, and they do not find employment elsewhere in the meantime. The clerical force has been too large for the amount of work there was to be done.

BUILDING ASSOCIATION OFFICERS —An adjourned meeting of the stockholders of the Franklin Loan and Building association to complete the election of a board of directors was held last evening. Since the first meeting adjourned it was ascertained that C P Hogue and George H Himes had been duly elected directors and had qualified. So the board proceeded to the election of officers, with the following result. President, John A. Child vice president, N Versteeg, treasurer, H W Monastes secretary, J T. Stewart, attorney, H H Northup J M Drake, E C Wheeler and H C Boyd were elected auditors for the ensuing year. D Solis Cohen, J T Stewart and H H Northup were appointed a committee to revise the by laws.

GRAND SHOOTING TOURNAMENT —The Rod and Gun club of this city are making preparations for a grand live bird and clay pigeon shooting match on the 6th of June. It is expected that the Seattle club, which entertained our boys in such fine style last year, will be present, as also clubs from Walla Walla, Corvallis, Albany, Eugene, Salem and Brooks. A committee from the club here visited various merchants yesterday, and collected over $300 in prizes to be contested for. The tournament will be the most extensive affair of the kind ever held here, and will wind up with a grand dinner.

CHINESE ROW AT ROOSTER ROCK —Four Chinamen were brought down from Rooster Rock yesterday and lodged in the county jail upon charges of assault and robbery. The warrant of arrest was issued by Justice ... of the Peace John Sweeney, and the complainant was a fifth Chinaman. The row occurred over the grubbing of a tract of land, the complaining witness being the overseer. A dispute about wages resulted in the latter getting a beating and he claims he lost $10 in money. There will be some tall swearing when the case comes before the grand jury.

SHEEP CHILLED TO DEATH —Quite a heavy loss has just been suffered by sheepmen ... out to Heppner. The cause seems to be that the sheep have just been sheared, and after being sheared they were "dipped." The dip is heated to 120 degrees, and the sheep coming out of this hot bath and a cold rain coming on immediately after, many of them have chilled to death. Already John Q. Wilson has lost 1 [illegible] head, Nelson Jones 300, W C Lacey 500, J L Fuller 100, while Tom Quaid and others lost various numbers. The total loss will be very large.

THE "MULTNOMAH" —To-morrow afternoon the new steamer Multnomah will make her trial trip, running to Oregon City and back. THE SALMON OUTLOOK

Continued Dullness in the Canned Produce and Low Prices take the Starch out of Cannery Owners

Referring to the dissatisfaction among the fishermen in and about Astoria, and the inability of employers and employed to come to terms, a well known cannery owner of this city said to an OREGONIAN reporter yesterday "I believe the cannerymen along the river generally, do not wish to put up any great quantity of fish this year. Unless an unusual demand should spring up which it is not reasonable to expect, there will be no money in the business. The best price now offered is 92½ cents a dozen, and I don't see where we are to look for higher prices later in the season. If we have to pay 60 cents for salmon, we can not more than come out even at present prices.

The fact is the reputation of our Columbia river salmon has suffered a great deal from competition by inferior grades of salmon both in the United States and abroad, and this tended to cut down the price quite as much as the decreased demand. An Astoria man who returned a few days ago from New Orleans, saw second grade Sacramento river salmon for sale at retail in that city at $1 a dozen, which is more than they are worth, but about 30 per cent less than our salmon could be sold for. The average consumer, until he has tried both, doesn't know any difference, and he never buys inferior salmon twice. After awhile people will learn to know the difference, and our salmon will sell to the exclusion of all poor brands. But it will probably pay us in the end just to drop operations for one year and take a fresh start in 1886. Of course if war should be declared between England and Russia there will be lively times among the fish and the canneries."

The situation of the striking fishermen and the cannerymen is thus summed up in yesterday's Astorian:

The striking fishermen held another meeting at upper Astoria yesterday. The result of their deliberations was the passage of a resolution notifying the cannerymen that after Friday next the price of salmon would be seventy cents. This complicates matters worse than ever. If the canners can't pay fifty five and sixty they can't pay seventy. The fact of the matter is that both the canners and fishermen have just enough right on their side to make it appear as though they were wholly right when viewed from their own standpoint. To chip in in a discussion like the present is a good deal like interfering between a man and his wife.

The fishermen say that at 45 and 50 cents they have to catch 500 or 600 fish before they are even or have their nets paid for, the cannerymen simply point to the market quotations and ask who is going to pay more, however much he may want to, with salmon at present figures in England. Both employers and employed very naturally object to work unless they can see something in it. One thing is certain—that no cannerymen on the river can, without loss, accede to the demands of the fishermen as expressed at their meetings. On the other hand it would appear as though the cannerymen are making a mistake in holding aloof and not manifesting any apparent interest in the matter. They are just the very ones that are interested more than anybody else and a plain statement of existing facts to the fishermen on the part of a few leading canners would go a good ways towards dispelling the present cloud that hangs over the lower Columbia. Two wrongs don't make a right, they sometimes make a heap of trouble for those that are only indirectly interested.

There is an old argument which starts in this way, "Come let us reason together." It is a first rate way to do, and even in this case it is not too late for the fishermen and canners to get together and talk the thing over. As it now stands, each side is in hopes the other will give in. Of course, as a matter of endurance, if it comes to a test, the fishermen can not stay idle. Whether that is the best policy, when the future is to be taken into consideration, is very questionable.

THE HORSE HEAVEN COUNTRY

PROSSER FALLS, Yakima Co., May 1[illegible]
TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN.

The country south of this place, familiarly known to every cowboy as the "Horse Heaven" country, is fast changing from a bunch grass range to a fertile wheat domain. The prospect of the growing crop now in the fields is better than was expected by the most sanguine. Even before the last rain when the grain in the Walla Walla and Umatilla country was withering away on account of the drouth, that on the whole seemed to withstand the dryness much better than in those old settled regions. Now, every farmer who has had any experience in wheat growing in this upper country knows that a new piece of ground is more subject to drouth than an old piece that has been cultivated. So here we may tally one for Horse Heaven. Many new claims are being taken, not by land sharks, but by bona fide settlers who have chosen this part of the "great footstool" as their future home. The Northern Pacific railroad is also disposing of its land on low and easy terms to our people. One thing we are much in need of is a flouring mill. Here is certainly a fine location for one. The falls here in the Yakima river are equal to any in the northwest. Several parties have been here examining the site with a view of putting in a mill, but none have so far taken the initiatory steps. Colonel Wm. F Prosser, the owner of the town site, will make a liberal offer to the right party. Trade and professional men might also do well to look this way.

Also [illegible] wheat, 6 0 bbls flour, 2 ctls oats, 781 ctls barley, 5710 lbs wool, 1 0 lbs hides from the eastern section.

Consignees of wool—Allen & Lewis 1[illegible], W. S. Mason 710, Bissinger & Co. 4050, and Christy & Wise 17,100 lbs.

FREIGHTS—The M. & E. Cox, wood, 1184 tons, loads wheat on owners' account, C. [illegible] & Co. furnishing the cargo, which is now on wharf. There is no inquiry for tonnage at this time. The disengaged list is made up of 8835 tons iron, [illegible] 17 [illegible] tons wood.

WHEAT—Unfavorable reports as to crops in England and on the continent, together with a backward season, steadies the foreign market to-day. Similar causes are upholding the American markets and causing holders to offer slowly. Our own market is without change. Very little trading is done, but this little shows values to be firm. We quote valley $1 30@1 37½, and Walla Walla 5c less. Shippers work very slowly.

OATS—Freer movement and holders are more disposed to let go, although prices are steady and have a seemingly strong undertone. Feed lots sold at 35@37½c, and better grades at 40@42c. Highest prices were paid for fancy qualities for shipment.

HAY—Offerings continue free, and $9 is about the top of the market unless for parcels of cleanest timothy, which are infrequent.

WOOL—Steady. Light business done generally within the range of 13@16c. Few parcels bringing more.

PROVISIONS—Meats generally weak and in slow sale. Lard rules dull. Some very choice is in from the eastern section.

CHICKENS—Steady at $3 50@4 25 for old and $3 for spring.

EGGS—We quote 18c for fresh, but 17½c was accepted for round lots.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 19.—Governments quiet and unchanged, except an advance of ⅛ in the price bid for currency 6s. Stocks showed a relapse into dullness, with only limited fluctuations. Only three of the usually active stocks show extreme changes for the day of as much as 1 per cent., and those three belong to the so-called Gould list. They monopolized [illegible] the total day's business, which aggregated only 187,700 shares. The result of the day's fluctuations is irregular, about an equal number of stocks showing advances and declines.

Pacific Mail was weak during the forenoon, and barely steady [illegible] about the close, when it again yielded a fraction, and is down this evening 1⅛ per cent. below yesterday's final price, after fluctuations of 1⅞ per cent. The present management is issuing a circular, asking for proxies to be used at the forthcoming annual election, and they base their claims upon the statement that during the last five years they have added five new steamers, have paid off the entire floating debt of $2,250,000, and paid $1,[illegible] in dividends, the first that have been paid in many years. In addition to this they have secured the repeal of some unjust laws and the passage of new and more equitable laws.

There was a great demand for Union Pacific after the opening of the board this morning, which came principally from short sales made yesterday, but the price remained strong and during the day it advanced 1½ per cent., and closed with a gain of ⅞ per cent. The Grangers were quiet and strong all day, and closed with only a slight advance over last evening. The bears, late in the afternoon, made an attack all along the line, which led to a weakness of most stocks in the last hour, and the sentiment in the board room at the close was bearish.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, May 19.—For immediate wants there has been light demand, but for lighter requests there has been good business in brown and colored cottons. Agents having cleaned up the stock of Lawrence LL 36 in brown sheetings and advanced the price to 5¼c. In consequence of many reports attributing to John L. Bremer & Co. and George C. Richardson, Smith & Co. an intention of offering these goods at auction these firms declare such reports absolutely unfounded. Exports of domestic cotton goods the past week have been 6676 packages, making for the expired portion of the year a total of 76,976 packages, being 7011 packages in excess of the same time in any previous year.

THE OREGON PACIFIC TROUBLES.

[illegible] Benton Co. [illegible] [illegible] The few [illegible] concerning the [illegible] of the [illegible] the undersigned [illegible] to come to the front [illegible] latent [illegible] in the [illegible]

Considering the [illegible] of the [illegible] between [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] present management to the same [illegible] the common sentiment of the people [illegible] county when [illegible] at most [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of April [illegible] a few bridges [illegible] who stopped [illegible] the locomotive [illegible] [illegible] at that [illegible] parties for [illegible] At that meeting resolutions were passed which have already appeared in print [illegible] signed by [illegible] twelve hundred [illegible] were held in Harrisburg and Philomath [illegible] the resolution of [illegible] [illegible] agreement [illegible] denouncing [illegible] destruction of the company's property, and pledging ourselves to protect the [illegible] [illegible] other to use all legal means in our power [illegible] The list of signatures was in [illegible] [illegible] A committee was [illegible] [illegible] to wait upon the vice president [illegible] [illegible] and was instructed [illegible]

[illegible] the county [illegible] [illegible] and Philomath [illegible] men, mechanics and laborers who [illegible] erected houses or tents with nothing [illegible] for the [illegible] which [illegible] they have [illegible] formed with [illegible] during the past six months. The amounts due range from [illegible] $50 each, and are for work done and supplies furnished while building the road, and have been due on an average about six months. During this time some of the creditors have been satisfied with [illegible] because hand merchants and contractors whom they owed large amounts, and who threatened them with attachment suits; on the other hand, [illegible] [illegible] through [illegible] who threatened [illegible] personal violence, and who were [illegible] [illegible] creditors who [illegible] the law [illegible] their accounts with the lawyers to go to work [illegible] so small [illegible] they had to barter them [illegible] at from thirty cents to fifty cents on the dollar, [illegible] still hanging on with nigh a [illegible] Many of these have relinquished long [illegible] and which they [illegible] [illegible] until the company pays them. Others who are strangers in the county, without means, and without credit, though having respectable standing, [illegible] from the company [illegible] for the necessaries of life. [illegible] have been given pledge [illegible] small amounts [illegible] [illegible] ten [illegible] until pay day [illegible] several in advance.

During the winter construction trains were frequently run over the road, but [illegible] get supplies [illegible] [illegible] the same [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] no [illegible] until [illegible] [illegible] And during the time [illegible] regular weekly train was run, the management with [illegible] Hogg, [illegible] Vanderbilt, refused to carry either freight or passengers for any of their creditors, though owing them hundreds of dollars and charging some to account, but must have cash down. Several instances are known where men walked from twenty to thirty miles along the track carrying a sack of flour, [illegible] half bushel of potatoes or other provisions equally heavy. Promises have been repeatedly given and as repeatedly broken that the money would come within a few days. Before the last spike was driven Manager Hogg assured the people with the most solemn promises that the money was ready and would be promptly forthcoming as soon as the rails were connected. That object was accomplished on the first day of December, and the money has not come. At all events we have received no money, which caused the uprising of the people and the public meetings alluded to.

Only yesterday a gentleman living near thirty miles down the line from Corvallis started to walk into town with the hope of bartering away some of his O. P. scrip or putting it up as security for provisions to last his family until he could get away and earn some money by day labor. This creditor has been a foreman on the road, has several months' pay due him, and a large family to support. He formerly held a clerkship under the government and for four years held a responsible position on the Northern Pacific. He is industrious, sober and poor, hence he is among the last for the authorities of the Oregon Pacific to recognize. Instances of this kind might be multiplied, but I will not encroach upon your space. But I must say a word in regard to certain publications in this county which by courtesy we call newspapers, for their acts of commission and omission have been most unjust to the creditors of this road. Not by word of censure have they given the management, or an item of explanation for their astonishing conduct toward its creditors. But on the other hand words of undue praise have been lavished upon it, and it has been lauded to the skies. For what? Building a railroad for its own benefit, and beating its employes out of their hard-earned wages. One miserable sheet (I have forgotten its name) published at the lower end of the line has gone so far as to term the people living along the road, nearly all of whom joined in the strike, as "criminal, hot-headed men, who care nothing for their own or their neighbors' future interests." And that they should be hunted down, etc. Now we will say that nearly all creditors living along the line have lived here long before this so-called editor was known, and expect to live here long after he has starved out and gone. We can be found at home and we are responsible for all we do and say. Our latch strings hang out, and the above mentioned rum eater or any other apologist for the Oregon Pacific can find us without hunting. As for damages done the track we have yet to hear of the first authenticated case, though many wild rumors have been set afloat. Certainly no depredations have been committed by the strikers, for it has been one of our chief aims to suppress all acts of violence.

This is a truthful though very mild statement of a few facts, which are vouched for by the undersigned, all of whom are residents of Benton county.

Philadelphia Press.

Your management of the office has been perfect, said Postmaster-General Vilas to Postmaster Palmer of Chicago, whose resignation he demanded.

You will understand, of course, that this is no complaint against your management, which has been admirable, telegraphed Commissioner Black to Miss Sweet, pension agent at Chicago, requesting her to transmit her resignation by wire.

And so the extinction of offensive partisans goes bravely on—except once in a while, as in the Sweet case, when it doesn't go.

New York.

This is to certify that I am well acquainted with a man fifty years of age, for many years a resident of this city, who has been at times extremely ill, but could not tell from what cause, unless it was worms. He told his attending physician his suspicions, but the physician at once ridiculed the idea, and refused to attend him any longer. His son then mentioned Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and asked him if he would take it; his reply was—I must take something to get relief.

They at once procured a bottle of Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and he took one dose. The result was, he passed upwards of three quarts of worms, cut up in every form. He got well immediately, and is now enjoying excellent health; and, like the good Samaritan of old, is endeavoring to relieve his unfortunate neighbors. He makes it his business to hunt up and select all cases similar to his own, that may be given over by regular physicians, and induces them to try Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge. So far he has induced more than twenty persons to take the Vermifuge, and in every case with the most happy results. He is well satisfied that Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, is far superior to any other known remedy, and that if more generally known would not fail to save many valuable lives. For further particulars inquire of Mrs. Hardie, 114½ Cannon street, New York City.
